FEAST OF PENTECOST

A child picks up a small bird that has fallen from its nest. He makes his hand into a nest to keep it from falling and doing further damage to its self.

But he does not make his hand into a cage, for he has no intention of possessing the bird or turning it into a pet. Having reassured the bird that it is in safe hands, he slowly raises it up and up.

Then, when the moment is right, he releases it. He rejoices when it succeeds in keeping itself aloft, and he is happier still when it flies off.

That is what love is.

Holy Spirit, on Pentecost Day, you released the apostles from the prison of the upper room, and they went forth with courage to do the work of Jesus.

Kindle within us the fire of Your love, and in our own humble way, we shall renew some small corner of the world.

Fr Terry msc
